

Mini Traffic Circles—Why not Winnipeg?

Photo by Richard Drdul

Traffic Circles force motorized traffic to slow down, and can be used in place of a stop sign.

Slower speeds mean fewer accidents, fewer injuries, and fewer fatalities.

Scott Street, Victoria BC

Photo by John Luton

Vancouver, BC

Photo by John Luton

Cost: $15,000+

Reducing Traffic on Bicycle Boulevards

Why not Winnipeg?

Reducing traffic volume makes a street more comfortable and appealing for cyclists.

Full diagonal diverter stops through traffic, but allows pedestrians and cyclists to continue

Photo by Richard Drdul

Right turn in, Right turn Out
Includes gaps for pedestrians and cyclists

Photo by Richard Drdul

Semi-Diverter prevents through traffic or right turns

Photo by Richard Drdul

Diverter at crossroads restricts through traffic and left turns

Intersection Pavement Markings

Why not Winnipeg?

Hook Turn
Burrard Street, Vancouver BC
Photos by John Luton

Left turn bike lanes connect bike route along jog in route

Photo by Richard Drdul

In-Line Bike Box
makes left turns easier

Photo by Richard Drdul

Bike Activated Traffic Signal

Photo by Richard Drdul

Raised Bike Lanes—Why not Winnipeg?

Berlin, Germany

Carrall Street,
Downtown Vancouver, BC
Photo by John Luton

Multi-use Path Intersections

Why not Winnipeg?

Raised Crossing at yield
Photo by Richard Drdul

Mid-block Crossing
Raised with Medians
Photo by Richard Drdul

Mid-block crossing,
Offset at median
Photo by Richard Drdul

Waterfront trial transition to roadway
Vancouver, BC
Photo by John Luton

Grade Separated Crossings

Why not Winnipeg?

Pedestrian/Bicycle Overpass
Portland, Oregon
Photo by John Luton

Underpass beneath Arterial Road
Davis, California
Photo by Jeff Tolentino

Spiral ramp bridge crosses highway on Route Verte, Quebec

Galloping Goose Trail, Greater Victoria, BC
Photo by John Luton

Separated Bike Lanes– Why not Winnipeg?

Separated Bike lane next to parking
Melbourne, Australia

Contra-flow Bike Lane
Madison, Wisconsin

Separated bike lane
9th Avenue, New York New York

Separated Bike Path
Montreal, QC
Photo by John S. Allen

Bike Lanes—Why not Winnipeg?

Bike lane next to Parking
Naito Parkway, Portland Oregon
Photo by John Luton

Bike Lane on congested street
Finlayson St, Victoria BC
Photo by John Luton

Bike Lane next to Parking
Glasgow, Scotland

Bike lane next to parking
Fort Street, Victoria BC
Photo by John Luton